

LONGEVITY RISK TRANSFER

21 JUNE 2018

The management of longevity risk is a key consideration for pension trustees with life expectancy steadily increasing around the world. Pension trustees have found ways to deal with this issue over the past decade or so but a new and innovative solution provided from Guernsey is making longevity risk transfer more cost efficient than ever.

Guernsey has been at the forefront of this development with an insurance industry that is renowned for its innovation, professionalism and ability to use flexible vehicles such as incorporated cell companies (ICCs) to write an extensive range of different business.
